Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing to express my interest in a front-end development internship opportunity. I am a Computer Science major at Cal Poly Pomona and have developed a deep passion and appreciation for designing clean, responsive, and user-focused web interfaces, easy enough for anyone to use is always my top goal. Another goal of mine is to apply my skills and creative mindset to real-world projects, further helping people have better interactions with technology as a whole.

As I was developing my Personal Portfolio Website, I was able to strengthen and further my understanding of my skills in HTML, CSS, and JavaScript, while also learning how to design with accessibility and responsiveness in mind. I have also produced multiple independent projects such as a Club Finance Tracker (a budget management web application), a Daily Planner using JavaFX, with my main focus on making an intuitive UI/UX, and my third project, a React-based Car Puzzle Game, all of which have been major moments of growth that helped me combine logic with a thought process on my design.

In addition to my technical knowledge and experience, I currently serve the position of Treasurer for two student organizations; Google Developer Groups and the Kellogg Honors College Club. These roles have definitely improved my collaboration, management, and communication skills, which are qualities I am ready to bring to any development team.

I am truly excited about being given an opportunity to contribute to a team that places creativity, usability, and modern web development practices at its forefront. I would appreciate and be honored to be given the chance to bring my enthusiasm, ready to learn attitude, and growing front-end skill set to your organization. I aim not only to enhance my knowledge, but be a positive addition to your establishment as a whole.

Thank you for your time and consideration. I look forward to the possibility of talking about how I will be a contribution to your team.

Sincerely,

Nicholas Garcia
